Personal Opinions on Questions of the Day

Environment As the Universal Developer

G. STANLEY HALL of Clark

NVIRONMENT is the greatest of all schools. Environment has developed EVERY form of life that exists out of protoplasm. You and I and every other form of animal and vegetable life in existence was ONCE a single cell. Heredity is the most precious inheritance in the world. TO BE WELL BORN IS THE GREATEST OF ALL WEALTH. Oliver Wendell Holmes said it took three generations to make a gentleman. I say it takes scores of generations to make a TRUE man or woman.

Each one of us had four grandparents. That makes eight greatgrandparents. Counting it back thus to the time of William the Conqueror, it will be found that every one of us had about 8,000,000,000 ancestors back to that time.

There is probably not a man alive who has not had among his ancestors a king and a beggar, an idiot and a philosopher, a saint and a murderer AND EVERY OTHER POSSIBLE TYPE of hu-

And if we reckon on into the future as far as William the Conqueror is in the rear we will find that every married pair will, as a rule, be the ancestors of some 8,000,000 descendants. WE are the FOCAL points between this cloud of witnesses in the past and that

And it is a curious fact that the best life, according to all the canons of virtue and humanity, is the one which when analyzed is found to be so regulated that it most effectually transmits 'THIS PRECIOUS INHERITANCE OF THE PAST. I hope the day will come when stirpiculture will be accorded an accepted place among the sciences and Tennyson's reproach to Englishmen, that they knew how to breed horses, but not men, will no longer be true.

It seems to be a law of nature that when any portion of the human race reaches a certain point of advancement it ceases to reproduce itself IN SUFFICIENT NUMBERS TO MAINTAIN IT-SELF. You know that certain wild animals will not breed when domesticated. No matter how carefully they are cared for, no matter what experiments are made in their environment, THE CONDI-TIONS ARE NOT RIGHT for reproduction, and man cannot disover how to make them right.

Now, civilization is man's domestication of himself, and it seems to be a law of nature that when he brings that domestication or civilization to a certain point he ceases to reproduce his kind under it. | The State of Obio. | sa The phenomenon we are witnessing in the old American stock today is in no sense an ISOLATED one.

Nor is this law of nature a calamity to the world. Rome never succeeded in civilizing either Britain or Germany. When she fell she left both countries inhabited by a race of barbarians, the tribes from one of them having invaded AND OVERWHELMED HER.

Now, supposing Rome had conquered and civilized Germany and Britain just as thoroughly as she did Italy, what would have happened? THE WORLD WOULD HAVE LOST TWO GREAT STOCKS, the German and the English, which have made new and enormous contributions to its advancement.

I can hardly agree with that president of a college who would have every unmarried man of forty subjected to a commission to see what is the matter with him and prescribe a remedy. I think he is a little hard on the bachelors. Still, there is something in his plea that the man WHO REFUSES TO TAKE UP THE BURDENS OF PARENTHOOD when he is able to sustain them is no better than the ablebodied man WHO CLAIMS EXEMPTION when the nation is in peril.

PARENTHOOD IS THE GREATEST THING IN THE WORLD. THE CHILD IS NOT ONLY AN EPITOME OF THE HUMAN RACE, BUT OF

Even in the body of the adult there are 130 rudimentary organs, no longer useful to man, remnants of his life AS AN ANIMAL. So in this wave of child study which is sweeping over the world we find strange and curious things in the child, strange, almost weird, reminders of the life of the race in its progress up from protoplasm.

The College Man In Politics

By R. FULTON CUTTING, Eminent New York Lawyer

UBLIC life in England contains so many successful men because they have been educated IN UNIVERSITIES. The same was true is the best days of Greece and Rome. It is true TODAY. In 1825 all the corruptions which we have now in the United States were extant in Great Britain. Then came the ideas of municipal corporations and the responsibility of the individual for the weaker AND POORER citizens. This principle is beginning to take hold in New York, where there is now a large annual appropriation for public baths.

IT WOULD BE WELL IF YOUNG COLLEGE MEN WOULD RE-ALIZE WHAT A GREAT FIELD THERE IS NOW OPEN TO EDU-CATED MEN IN POLITICS. IF THEY WILL TAKE AN INTEREST AND DO THEIR SHARE THERE IS A WIDE EXTENT OF USEFUL-NESS BEFORE THEM.

The Relative Position of the By President J. H. FINLEY of the New York City College

T used to be "He loves," "He advises," "HE RULES," but nowadays it is "she" or "they," with a FEMININE antecedent. There has been a great change in the very generic pronouns of civilization. Woman should put herself in man's place NOT AS A LIEUTENANT, but by telling him his duty and then DRIVING him to do it. Why, just the other day I saw a man wearing a large household apron and doing the work generally assigned to woman's lot.

A GREAT CHANGE HAS APPEARED IN THE RELATIVE POSI-TION OF THE SEXES.
